Intorrent Technologies Releases Hosted Phone System for Small Business

Intorrent Supercell Provides Feature-Rich Cloud Telephony with Vertical Market Customization

Alpharetta, GA – Intorrent Technologies, a leading provider of Asterisk-based VoIP phone systems for small and medium businesses, has announced the release of Intorrent Supercell, a hosted telephony solution designed to meet the needs of small- to medium-sized operations.

The Cloud-based system, which can be configured for individualized market segments, offers a cost- and space-efficient way for small businesses to communicate with improved functionality and increased professionalism. From an easy-to-use interface, Intorrent Supercell's lines, extensions and features are quickly reconfigured, providing small business owners a flexible solution that evolves at the speed of their operation.

"With Intorrent Supercell, no longer are professional-grade VoIP solutions limited to the established enterprise space," said Darrell Hensley, Intorrent Technologies managing partner. "Intorrent's Cloud solution was engineered with the modern entrepreneur in mind. This is a flexible, scalable and economical communications package that keeps companies nimble for whatever may arise."

Among Intorrent Supercell's many practical features are an automated attendant/virtual receptionist, voicemail forwarding by email, location to location dialing by extension, and much more.
